STRAIN OF THE MONTH

Ngaio Bealum's High Life Release of OD Bubba Mint

Ngaio Bealum is a renowned comedian, writer, musician, juggler and cannabis proponent, among other things. The Natural Cannabis Company is teaming up with him again to bring our clients the OD Bubba Mint High Life package, which includes an eighth, a joint, NCC papers and lighter. Bubba Mint is a wonderful combination of Bubba Kush and Thin Mint Cookies. This Indica-dominant blend is skunky, yet with an underlying sweetness that makes it a very pleasant inhale. This is the best way to end a long day with laughter. The effects of this strain are physically relaxing and mentally calming, a great solution for sufferers of stress and anxiety. This package is exclusively available to clients of the Natural Cannabis Company, so don't miss out!

There are now chapters operating all over the United States and Canada, including in the Bay Area, Sonoma County and Mendocino – visit: <http://womengrow.com/chapters/> for more information on events and activism with your local chapter.

CULTIVATING WISDOM™

MARCH CULTIVATING TIP

BUILDING BEDS AND BENEFICIAL BEANS

While cannabis plants won't be ready to go outside for another two months, it's not too early to start preparing your garden for their arrival. Since the season of frosts has ended, it is a great time to start planting other crops that are advantageous to your cannabis cultivation. Any kind of bean crop will deposit beneficial nutrients like nitrogen into soil, which help to naturally amend your grow medium. You will also have delicious homegrown beans as a result. If you plan on using planter beds, remember to build them with sufficient space in between. With any luck, your plants are going to spread out and get very large, so make sure that you still have room to give each plant individual attention and proper care. By planning for your garden early on you are getting closer to your goal of a successful harvest season in the Fall.
