STRAIN OF THE MONTH

Hulk

Hulk is a delightfully unique phenotype resulting from a cross of Strawberry Diesel and OG originating in Amsterdam. This Sativa-dominant flower is unusually dense, light green and completely coated in trichomes. It produces creative, aware and talkative effects that daytime smokers truly enjoy. Hulk enthusiasts report that this strain is heady without being spacey and relaxing without being sleepy. This balance is just what artists, performers, writers and social butterflies crave. It provides comfortable muscle relaxation for moderate pain relief that isn't sedative. This might be just the right strain for family gatherings during the holiday season.

CULTIVATING WISDOM™

NOVEMBER CULTIVATING TIP

AUTUMN PRESERVES

For late bloomers harvesting in November, make sure that your product is quickly processed and stored in a humidity-controlled environment. Time is of the essence. If branches are simply left to hang, botrytis and other mildews can proliferate; more minor issues like discoloration and loss of terpene essence are also common when your harvest is left unattended. Top trim should be separated during processing for use in concentrates, edibles and topical treatments; there is no need to waste! Once your harvest is complete and cured to perfection, make sure to store it somewhere with a consistently moderate temperature in the dark. It is also possible to purchase simple humidity control packets (designed for cigar boxes,) to maintain exactly the correct amount of moisture in your buds for long-term storage.
